Re: Dis-application of provisions contained in the Consumer Protection Code

Dear Name

Directive 2008/48/EC on credit agreements for consumers was transposed via the EC (Consumer Credit Agreements) Regulations 2010 (the Regulations) and became effective on 11 June 2010.

In view of the maximum harmonisation principle of Directive 2008/48/EC which is set out in Article 22 as follows, “Insofar as this Directive contains harmonised provisions, Member States may not maintain or introduce in their national law provisions diverging from those laid down in this Directive”, the Central Bank of Ireland has reviewed the Consumer Protection Code. On the basis of this review the Central Bank considers that the requirements listed in the attached Notice do not apply to creditors when engaging in the provision of credit agreements that fall within the scope of the Regulations, to consumers, as defined in those Regulations.

Any queries on the above should be emailed to code@centralbank.ie.

Yours sincerely

Sharon Donnery
Head of Consumer Protection Codes Division
Notice to creditors of the dis-application of requirements contained in the Consumer Protection Code to the provision of credit agreements that fall within the scope of SI No 281 EC (Consumer Credit Agreements) Regulations 2010

Due to the maximum harmonisation principle of Directive 2008/48/EC on credit agreements for consumers which states in Article 22 that “Insofar as this Directive contains harmonised provisions, Member States may not maintain or introduce in their national law provisions diverging from those laid down in this Directive” the Central Bank of Ireland has reviewed the Consumer Protection Code and found that the following requirements will no longer apply to creditors when engaging in the provision of credit agreements that fall within the scope of the EC (Consumer Credit Agreements) Regulations 2010 (the Regulations), to consumers, as defined in those Regulations.
